To whom it may concern

AdviceUK is the largest support network for free, independent advice centres in the UK.

Supporting Role Ltd has been helping us to look after our IT systems since 2002. They have helped us move premises three times, and upgrade our systems twice so far, with a third upgrade in the planning stages. They are professional and helpful at all times.

If you would like to contact me for a reference, please do not hesitate to do so.

Yours sincerely
